Jose Fraguas has black belts in Judo, Tae Kwondo, and Kenpo-Karate. He has a 5th degree black belt in Shito Ryu karate under Japanese masters Masahiro Okada and Yasunari Ishimi. He began a career as a writer at age of 16 by serving as a regular contributor to martial arts magazines in Great Britain, France, Spain, Italy, Germany, Portugal, Holland, and Australia. Having a black belt in three different styles allows him to better reflect the physical side of the martial arts in his writing. Seeking to supplement his previous martial arts after moving to Los Angeles, CA. he researched other disciplines such as Jiu-jitsu and Muay Thai. In 1986, Fraguas founded his own book and magazine company in Europe, authoring dozens of books and distributing his magazines to 35 countries in three different languages. His reputation and credibility as a martial artist and publisher became well known to the top Masters around the world. He is now President of empire Books and Vice-president Empire Media, the world's leading martial arts publishing company.
